

2020 International SSADHD Conference
Save the Date
July 9 – 10, 2020

The Inn At Longwood Medical
342 Longwood Avenue
Boston, MA 02115

While much has been done in the field of Succinic Semialdehyde Dehydrogenase Deficiency (SSADHD), much still remains to be achieved. Leaders in the field will review those achievements and future goals in terms of properly diagnosing, understanding, and treating SSADHD. We hope you will join us.

Conveniently located at The Inn At Longwood Medical hotel, the conference will bring together clinicians, scientists and families affected by SSADHD. The objectives of the conference are:

- To integrate the most up to date information.
- Foster networking and collaboration among clinicians, researchers and families.
- Provide updates on research studies.
- Review and discuss current clinical management.
- Strategize for advocacy on behalf of SSADHD.

The conference format will include formal presentations by outstanding clinicians and researchers in the field, allowing for open dialogue and question and answer sessions. The goal is to encourage brainstorming between speakers and attendees about the best directions of research and clinical practice for SSADHD.

To register for this event and see a more detailed listing of the agenda please visit:

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/2020-international-ssadhd-conference-tickets-89053863503>

For hotel reservations please use the link below:

<https://be.synxis.com/?Hotel=58219&Chain=65&arrive=7/8/2020&depart=7/10/2020&adult=1&child=0&group=BCHN0720>